

ProofReady + Google Classroom

Three ways ProofReady can fit into the way your school already uses Classroom

OPTION 1 — QUICK START

Use ProofReady alongside Classroom (no setup needed)

|                         |                                                                                                         |
|-------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| How it works     | I send you a link to a ProofReady task. You paste it into a Classroom assignment as a link or material. |
| What students do | Click the link, sign in with their school Google account, write or paste their draft, and get feedback. |
| What IT does     | Nothing.                                                                                                |
| Best for         | Trialling ProofReady with a single class this week.                                                     |

Trade-off: ProofReady doesn't automatically know your class roll, so you'd need to check ProofReady directly to see who's submitted.

OPTION 2 — CONNECTED

Roll sync + status in your Classroom gradebook

|                         |                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| How it works     | ProofReady is approved for your school's Google domain. It can see your classes and students automatically, and "draft submitted" appears in your Classroom gradebook. |
| What students do | Same as Option 1 — but they don't have to enter their class details. ProofReady recognises them.                                                                       |
| What IT does     | A Workspace admin approves ProofReady for your domain — a one-off step, similar to approving any new Google-connected tool.                                            |
| Best for         | A whole faculty or department where you want ProofReady to feel like part of Classroom.                                                                                |

OPTION 3 — EMBEDDED

ProofReady inside Classroom (Add-on)

|                         |                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|-------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| How it works     | When you create a Classroom assignment, you click "Add" and choose ProofReady — the same way you'd add Kami or Edpuzzle. Students see ProofReady embedded directly in the assignment. |
| What students do | Stay inside Classroom the whole time — drafts and feedback live in the same place as the rest of the assignment.                                                                      |
| What IT does     | Installs ProofReady from the Google Workspace Marketplace.                                                                                                                            |
| Best for         | Schools where Google Workspace is fully embedded in day-to-day teaching.                                                                                                              |

Important catch: This option only works if your school is on Google Workspace for Education Plus or the Teaching & Learning Upgrade (Google's paid Education tiers). The free Workspace for Education tier doesn't support add-ons. A useful question for your IT admin: "Which Workspace for Education tier are we on?"

| What you get                    | Option 1 | Option 2                 | Option 3            |
|---------------------------------|----------|--------------------------|---------------------|
| Setup needed from IT            | None     | One-time domain approval | Marketplace install |
| Roll syncs automatically        | No       | Yes                      | Yes                 |
| "Submitted" status in gradebook | No       | Yes                      | Yes                 |
| Embedded inside Classroom       | No       | No                       | Yes                 |
| Works on free Workspace tier    | Yes      | Yes                      | Paid tier needed    |
